

THE BARRE DAILY TIMES

Subscriptions: One year, $3; one month, 25 cts; single copy, 1 cent.

Members of the Publishers' Press—The latest telegraphic news from all parts of the world are received by the Daily Times up to the hour of going to press.

Published Every Weekday Afternoon.

Entered at the postoffice at Barre as second class matter.

THURSDAY, JULY 25, 1903.

The average daily circulation of the Barre Daily Times for the week ending Saturday was copies, the largest paid circulation of any daily paper in this section.

A Thousand A Day

more copies of the Times are printed and sold than of any competitor in Barre.

The Daily Times

is the only daily in Washington County that publishes its circulation so that all readers and advertisers may know what it is.

Do you have an advertisement in it?

Japan bristles up to Russia, carrying on her shoulder a ship which is already tilted to such an angle that the least touch will knock it off. Although small, Japan is exceedingly pugnacious. Yet there is little likelihood of war.

Behold the amazement of the prohibition mind, as expressed by the St. Johnsbury Republican:

"For five days there have been no arrests for drunkenness in Burlington. Either the police are tired out or Burlington is sobering off."

It seems that the city is so well pleased with granite paving, before it has been tried and even before the first block is laid, that we are going to extend the paving. Anticipation is strong and here's hoping that the realization will not dim its lustre.

If there was a candidate for governor in the vicinity of Burlington we feel quite sure that the Burlington News would be the first to urge his candidacy on the ground that he was from "our city." Like the mountain line rule which the News is now combatting, circumstances are quite likely to alter one's view of the situation.

The Ludlow Tribune is engaged in a prolix discussion with some of the citizens of its town as to whether or not a barrel for waste paper would be the proper thing for their postoffice. Why not put a period to the discussion by putting the barrel in the postoffice? There would be no discussion after that was done, as its advantages would be apparent to any person with eyes.

When one gets down to the bald facts of the case, no matter what kind of a liquor law is passed, it is a hard matter to persuade the public to treat the evil of intemperance seriously.—St. Albans Messenger.

Lack of seriousness is one explanation, but lack of responsibility is a better one it seems to us. Whether the law be prohibition, license, South Carolina dispensary, Norwegian or a hybrid, there is the same lack of responsibility, too much of the weak desire to shift the burden on a few.

If anyone rises to remark that a hedgehog bounty is not a success, just point out to him that since New Hampshire's law went into effect four months ago bounties have been paid on 7,900 of the animals at a cost of $1,070.50. Nor is that all the tale as the figures above given are for 20 towns, or one-tenth of the state's total number, and as the Concord Monitor remarks "If the rest of the state approaches the record of this section and the slaughter continues, a record will be made almost equal to the famous woodchuck days." And we venture the opinion that the "woodchuck days" must necessarily have been pretty famous in order to equal this year's hedgehog record. In two small towns alone over 2,000 of the animals have been killed, and there are eight months left to complete the record. New Hampshire's bounty is twenty-five cents a head, and to prevent inter-state commerce in the lucrative business a fine of not less than $10 or thirty days imprisonment or both, is fixed for the person who presents the head of a hedgehog killed in another state and presented to the selectmen of any New Hampshire town for bounty. So far as Vermont is concerned this prohibition is unnecessary as this state is as generous.

Ancient Etiquette of Gloves.
In the middle ages etiquette with regard to gloves was far more stringent than at present. For instance, no one was permitted to enter a church wearing gloves, which were considered just as much out of place as it would nowadays be to remain in any sacred edifice with a hat on.

SHIRTS

You can't have too many of them this weather. If your case is not large enough get another, but don't pinch yourself on shirts (some are sure to get pinched in the laundry).

You case is the common case of all: On all cases, some trunks must fall.

ABOUT THE STATE.

Items of Interest Gleaned From Our Exchanges.

Arthur D. Washburn of Brookfield, while loading hay last Friday fell off the load striking on his head and hurting him very badly. On Saturday morning he was in a very bad condition and Dr. Ellis was summoned. It is feared his spine was injured.

Bennington experienced four hard thunder showers Tuesday. During one of them lightning struck the residence of J. M. Ayers. The house was considerably damaged. Three women inside were not injured but were badly scared. A telephone pole on Main street was also shattered. The lightning also struck a large barn belonging to William R. Morgan and burned out the fire alarm box near the mill of the Cooper Manufacturing Co., as well as its own private system.

Daniel Preston, who celebrated his 90th birthday anniversary at his home near Bolton Falls last week Monday being assisted by 40 of his neighbors, friends and relatives, has a record for his years, and is probably one of the most active men in Washington county of his age. He has a garden containing one-half acre that it is impossible to find a weed in, and Martin Hayden, his son-in-law, says he can do as much work in the hay field as any of the men employed by him. Last winter he cut and piled 40 cords of wood. His only defect is in his ears; he is hard of hearing. He has every promise of rounding out the century mark.

Yielding to the advice of friends, says the Burlington Free Press, Rev. M. Winslow Farman of Westfield, has become a candidate for the chaplaincy of the United States Senate, and it is unnecessary to say that he will have the loyal support of the people of this state in his candidacy for this honor. Senators Redfield Proctor and William P. Dillingham have announced their willingness to present Mr. Farman's name, when Congress convenes, and under all the circumstances the merits of his claim will undoubtedly commend him to the consideration of the members of the upper branch of Congress.

Lemon Cream.

Mix together the juice of two lemons, the grated peel of one, the juice of two oranges and a cup of sugar. Let stand two hours, then add a little grated nutmeg and strain through cheese cloth. Add gradually a pint of stiffly whipped cream and serve soon with any light, delicate cake.

Awnings.

To make awnings waterproof immerse first in a solution of soap and repeat the process in a copper solution of equal strength and then wash and dry.

Sisal Hemp.

Not more than 350 square miles of territory are under cultivation in henequin or sisal hemp, yet on this small area is produced the fiber that literally binds the wheat harvests of the world. It is used alike in Minnesota and Argentina, in Siberia and Egypt.

The Sock Fad.

There's been a lot of talk about the women's latest fad. The style of wearing socks so short they'd barely suit a lad. Some men are saying it's a shame that women thus conspire and to their use appropriate. Things meant for male attire. But when one thinks of other things that women took for dress 'tis plain seen that this new fad need cause no man distress. For long ago the women donned Huts made like those for men, and when they wearied of that fad they started in again.

They took to shirts of mannish style, And, though that caused surprise, They promptly added mannish cuffs, Man's collars and man's ties. And when cold weather came along Some thought they were not dressed Unless they wore a mannish coat As well as mannish vest.

They've broken into many sports Men thought were all his own, And on the field athletic girls Their prowess oft have shown. We've heard them at the baseball games Join in the faint refrains. They're charming just the same. While pertly swinging canes.

So when we think of all these things There's no cause for shocks Because the women have a fad Of wearing half length socks. Don't make a fuss about the style, Don't say that it's a shame, For no odds what the fad once wears They're charming just the same. —Theodore H. Boice in Pittsburg Chronicle-Telegraph.

An Innocent Farmer.

An innocent farmer of Gloucester County, Va., who had been told that he should be careful of his words, said to a neighbor: "I don't want to be a perfect impostor."

GOWN GOSSIP.

Velvet collars on linen walking dresses seem strangely out of place, but they are seen.

Foulard and wash silk four-in-hand ties are cool and summery to wear with turndown linen collars.

Birds and wings are not popular this summer in Paris. Nevertheless they are prophesied for this country this fall.

A new development is the trimming of linen colored gowns, such as pongees, tussore and crash, with a double piping, one of a bright color and the other of black.

The number of brown hats among the latest importations is notable and is an indication of the vogue that color is destined to become when the next fashions are shown.

Very pretty are many of the light wool shawls to be worn on summer evenings out of doors. Some of these shawls are lacy in texture and have silk and chenille fringes.

A perfectly made bodice waist is as much of a satisfaction to wear or to behold as an inferior garment of the same description is dowdy and distressing. An interlining of two or more thicknesses of chiffon is almost a necessity.—New York Post.

The Coffins of the Greeks.

The ancient Greeks used a species of limestone known as sarcophagus in making coffins. The peculiar quality of sarcophagus consisted in the fact that it would consume the human body within a period of a few weeks. It is said to have been found at Assos, a city of Lydia.

Proportion of Murders.

One death in every 112 in the United States is a murder.

Strawberry Plants.

A strawberry plant if set in a patch of dry sand will send out its runners in the direction where good soil is nearest.

DAMES AND DAUGHTERS.

The late Mrs. Alice Freeman Palmer and the busiest woman could take half an hour a day to read the newspaper and ten minutes a year to vote.

Elizabeth Lyons, the oldest nun in the diocese of Connecticut, died the other day in St. Patrick's convent, New Haven. She was a nun for fifty-one years.

Lilli Lehmann, the prima donna, confesses to being fifty-two years old and has spent thirty-four years upon the stage, having made her debut at Prague when she was eighteen.

Mrs. Margaret Dandelion of Cambridge, Minn., is 132 years old. She is the mother of two Swedish Baptist ministers and ascribes her long life to her strict adherence to the tenets of the church.

Lady Cecilia Roberts reports that there are now 217 branch temperance societies on British war ships. She asserts that it is easy to make soldiers give up strong drink provided they have good food.

There recently died in New Orleans the one time "queen of the circus," Elizabeth Howard, who forty years ago divided honors with Dan Rice. In the old days Miss Howard was easily the most popular female performer in the sawdust ring, but the last twenty years of her life were spent selling newspapers.

Mme. Sklodowska-Curie, the young and famous chemist, took her degree of D. Sc. at the Sorbonne recently. She is the wife of Professor P. Curie, and both enjoy worldwide fame as the joint discoverers of radium. The discussion of Mme. Curie's thesis was a mere formality. The examiners did not offer objections to her thesis, but passed her with congratulations.

Dangerous Development.

A big arm, with fine biceps, triceps and deltoid development, may be very pretty to look at, but such arms have oftentimes cost their owners their lives through enlargement of internal organs incident to their development.

Sulphur Baths.

A sulphur bath, which persons travel far to take at the springs, may be taken at home very acceptably and with good results by throwing a handful of sulphur into the bath water.

SCRAPS OF SCIENCE.

Length of the rays does not affect the chemical activity of light, although it determines their color.

"The solar system is monarchy, with the sun for autocrat. Our sidereal universe is a republic, a federation without a dominating authority," says Flammarion.

The atom of hydrogen is the smallest of the ultimate atoms of the chemists, but it is 1,750 times as large as the corpuscles which have recently been demonstrated as the elements of the atoms.
